

Pangaea integrates with your freight management software!

It is easy to integrate your own freight management software with Pangaea.

This will mean that when an order is entered into Pangaea, it will be automatically registered on your freight management system.

Furthermore if your agent is using a different freight management software, that is not a problem either.

When the order is entered into Pangaea, it will be automatically registered on both yours and your agents freight management software instantly.

Pangaea is packed with smart technology to provide integration with other systems. This is made possible by a smart feature called an API, or in technical terms, Application Programming Interface.

The API enables Pangaea to integrate with a number of systems including BoxTop and CyberFreight.

The key BENEFITS of Integrating Pangaea with your freight management software are:

1. Reduce your office labor through smart integration

If your client enters their own orders into Pangaea, the orders will be automatically registered into your system, eliminating the need for your staff to key orders.

2. Significantly reduce the risk of human error

By having your freight management software automatically updated, the risk of incorrectly interpreted information from being entered into your system is completely eliminated.
